This flight shows the Cabernet Sauvignon style in Yilli Valley, very oaky but supported by good concentration of fruit.

An interesting bracket; some division in styles and scores but judges clearly enunciated their views, and so ultimately the most appropriate score was settled upon. Positive spirit was clearly engaged in the instances where judges went 'high', and we celebrated this, and reviewed the wines with this attitude.

Class CABb23C Comments:

This was a very challenging bracket. Almost all of the wines lacked freshness of fruit, and many were unclear; some unacceptably so. One old wine from 2010 was showing well, but in its final years. Please, please, please protect fruit integrity in the vineyard, and keep wines fresh and clean in the winery! Anything less will be problematic for the final wines.

Class CABb28 Comments:

Many wines in this class were over extracted, tannic, dried out and dominated by oak. This is a shame - we were looking for the lovely Cabernet fruit! One wine showed lovely fruit presence, and we rewarded it for that, although the judges noted that if it saw less overt oak characters, it would have been improved.

Tianshan Mountain North (iCABb39)	CABb39	95.0	Gold

Class CABb39 Comments:

A r class of Cab blends. Wine 2 the only real problem wine. Various ripeness levels and oak use. Winemakers need to be cautious of excess charring of American oak.

A challenging bracket - some faults, producers using sugar as a mask for poor quality fruit or winemaking, and a general lack of freshness and varietal clarity. The best wine was an exotic, lithe little Rose - not particularly complex but fresh and pretty. Some work yet to be done in this category.
